

CME Certificate:

The OCME is required by the AMA to: (1) document the number of credit hours the physicians participated in the CME activity, (2) maintain the attendance records for six years, and (3) provide a credit certificate that accurately reflects the number of credit hours the physician earned.

The OCME will provide the sponsoring department/joint sponsor with the certificates for distribution within 4-6 weeks of receiving the Post-Activity Documentation for the educational activity.

The sponsoring department is responsible for obtaining additional continuing education credits (such as nursing credits, AAFP, etc.) including the production and distribution of the CE certificates.
